

Ian Schrager, the American visionary and pioneer of boutique hotels, brings the modern luxury of the EDITION Hotels brand to Shanghai. The Shanghai EDITION is housed in one of the city's finest buildings; the former headquarters of Shanghai Power Company on Nanjing Road, along the tree-lined Huang Pu River port on the Bund.

The Shanghai EDITION includes 145 rooms and suites, many with breathtaking views of the Bund and an array of dining and dining spaces. Including HIYA, a new Japanese restaurant by Jason Atherton on the 27th floor and Shanghai's stylish incarnation of Punch Room, the chic cocktail lounge and ROOF, a garden rooftop bar with 360 degree views of Shanghai.

The striking Lobby and main entrance to The Shanghai EDITION features a centerpiece light custom designed by the French architectural and decorative designer Eric Schmitt. The 9.5 meter high Grey stone walls are juxtaposed with rich walnut fittings which provide a sense of intimacy and warmth.

The 145 guest rooms and suites at The Shanghai EDITION features the conveniences travelers need. State-of-the-art beds are decorated with imported luxury Anichini linens and unique and custom designed furniture with carefully selected textiles. The bathrooms are finished in white marble, detailed in contrasting black metal, with custom-scented Le Labo amenities as standard.

The guest amenities are endless; the swimming pool that was modelled as though carved from a solid mass of Pietra Serena from an ancient Roman mountainside, and overlooking the urban landscape; the gym features the state-of-the-art gym equipment selected by renowned fitness experts; the indoor gym allows guests to meditate and practice tai chi, yoga, and cardio against an urban backdrop.

The Spa at The Shanghai EDITION features a total of 6 treatment rooms and suites, manicure and pedicure services, sauna, an expansive relaxation area with fully equipped bar and a retail boutique. It offers authentic Asian treatment inspired by western rituals featuring top-shelf products by Amala and Intracuticals – designed exclusively for EDITION's well-travelled and elegant guests.
